

What Is The Difference Between Man And The Animal

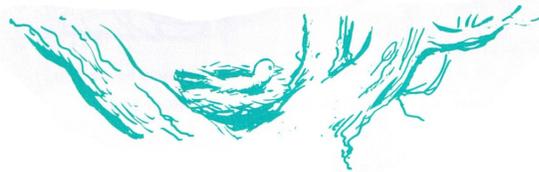

We learned something about God from the things He made. We can, therefore, learn something about a cause from its effects. Let us use this same method in exploring the nature of man.

Difference No. 1:

A spider spins his web exactly as his ancestor did 1,000 years ago.

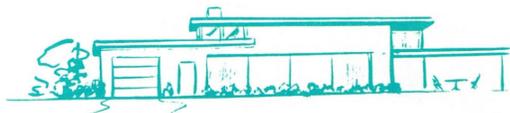

A bird builds his nest the same way his ancestors did.

A man makes progress. He goes from this

To this

So a man can reason. Animals cannot. If they could, they would make progress too. They would invent.

So difference No. 1 between man and the animal is REASON.

(When an animal acts in a manner that seems intelligent, the mind at work is the mind of God working through the animal in the way the mind of the inventor or manufacturer works through the machine produced.)
