The Argument to the Great Mind

If you go to the beach and see the rocks strewn about –

And you come back an hour later

And see them in an orderly pile –

You don't say, "Look what happened by chance".

You say, "Look what 'someone did'".

You know there was a mind at work

Because there is order.

The universe is orderly.

There must be a mind at work to create the order.
